POLLUTION PROBLEMS.

Dr. Moore Discusses Work Done by Commission to Conserve Aquatic Life

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 26.—In the course of a lecture before the class in the conservation of wild life at Cornell University, Dr. Emaline Moore, investigator in fish culture of the Conservation Commission outlined briefly the work that the commission is doing to conserve the supply of aquatic life.

To give some idea of the scope of the work she enumerated some of the principal investigations made during the last six years:

The listing of all manufacturing plants which might pollute streams—some three thousand of them.

Inspection of many of these plants, though this work is still incomplete.

Study of the literature of the subject, covering a wide and varied field.

Cooperative work with Cornell University and the Milk Commission Board on matters related to milk waste treatment.

Cooperative work with Cornell University in a Biological Survey of Lake George.

Field and laboratory studies of fish, their habits, needs, diseases and susceptibility to pollution.

Effects of pollution on the aquatic industry and means of elimination of the evil results when pollution is not under our jurisdiction.

Another activity, quite general among all the states in the propagation of young fish to assist nature in rehabilitating the streams.

Our output last year of young trout alone amounted to 10 million fingerlings. At an average length, let us say, of three inches when planted in the streams, these fingerlings if placed end to end would cover a span of about 500 miles.

NEW DREAMMAKING

TERM AT THE Y. W. C. A.

A new term of dreammaking will begin on Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. under the direction of Mrs. Alice Otis. The plan of the class is to permit each person to make whatever she desires, the instructor advising about the cutting out of the garment and fitting of it, and general assistance in the workmanship.

Mrs. Otis is particularly gifted in this line of work and formerly taught in New York city. She is planning to enter the class should be at the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday at 7:15.

The course will run for six weeks. A new class in basketry is also scheduled to start on Tuesday evening under the direction of Mrs. Watson Wheeler. There are now few classes in this work at the association, showing how popular this craft is becoming.

Those interested in any of the new classes should communicate with the association office at once for details.

Black Bass Need More Protection

Taking Fish During Spawning Time Seriously Depletes the Supply—Need of Close Season Pointed Out by Conservation Commission.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 26.—The need of a close season for black bass that will be absolutely inclusive of their spawning time in all the waters of the state, if this favorite game fish is to receive the protection that it needs is pointed out in the annual report of the conservation commission to the legislature.

The comparatively small output of black bass by the hatcheries of the commission is accounted for in the explanation that this species of game fish will not permit of artificial handling for the removal of spawn. The trout, pike and perch distributed by the conservation commission are all "stripped" of spawn by fish culturists either in the hatchery or at the water from which the fish are taken, but the reproduction of black bass must be left to natural causes which necessitates the construction of ponds especially adapted to nest building for the bass. This, the only method of bass cultivation, makes for a limited supply of fry for the hatcheries, and brings up the question of the best means of conserving one of the greatest game fishes of our waters.

It is known that the spawning season of the black bass is not uniform. It present, the general open season for the taking of black bass occurs on June 15. It is reasonable to believe that in a great number of waters of the state, the spawning season has ended by that date, but in some waters it is certain that it continues each year until after July 1, and many times, because of delayed seasons or for other causes the spawning of the bass continues until July 15.

When the bass season opens before the spawning season is ended, the fish or their nests are an easy prey to the thoughtless or unscrupulous angler. They are easily taken and the hatched brood or the eggs on the nest are lost to the waters. The protection of one bass nest on a lake or stream would mean far more in stocking the water than the entire allotment of a season by the conservation commission handicapped by the only known method of cultivation—that of pond culture.

The male parent bass guards the nest during the time of egg hatching and until the resultant swarms of bass fry are able to care for themselves. Without the care of the parent bass the eggs in the nest invariably die and without his guardianship the swarm of fry would be at the mercy of every natural enemy and soon destroyed.

The average output of one bass nest protected would be 2,500 fry, and the probable largest stocking of the water by a state fish hatchery would be 500 fry—one-fifth of nature's distribution. The only way to insure the permanence of the bass is to protect them on their spawning beds, and the best way to do that is to extend the close season for their taking until July 1.

NOTED NEGRO SOLOIST TO SING HERE FEB. 9.

Harry T. Burleigh, noted negro soloist and composer of New York city, will appear in Kingston on Monday evening, February 9, in the High School Auditorium under the auspices of the Schubert Choral Club.

For the last twenty-five years Mr. Burleigh has been an outstanding figure in musical circles, having been soloist at the exclusive St. George's Episcopal Church. He is prominent as a concert singer and his services are much in demand. The club feels proud to bring him to this city and much interest is being manifested in his appearance here.

The club itself will render several selections under the capable direction of Miss Virginia Los Kamp. The chorus is composed of the following young women: The Misses Elizabeth Bishop, Mildred Brower, Jessie Cowley, Ruth Dana, Dorothy Dick, Maude Dudley, Hazel Dutton, Mae Eckert, Beatrice Elias, Zella Folette, Mildred Forst, Marjorie Greene, Jeannette Grimes, Helen Haubebeck, Naomi Herd, Jennie Hiltbrand, Emily Hoyrstadt, Jane Hutton, Marguerite Hutton, Lillian Hyatt, La Ethel Jackson, Ethel Kline, Emily Krieger, Greta Linkletter, Pearl Markie, Mathilda Martin, Dorothy Mead, Gertrude Mosinger, Mildred Messenger, Katherine Moore, Theresa Nichols, Hilda Port, Irene Rodman, Alice Redmond, Elsie Rice, Nan Rodie, Leland Rich, Catherine Rose, Ethel Schlicht, Mildred Schwab, Alice Schweinler, Margaret Scott, Mildred Shultz, Gladys Snow, Florence Tappes, Alma Tyler, Willa Van Vleet, Florence Wheeler, Caroline Whitling, Margaret Willmott, Elsie Winchell, Mrs. Forest Borton, Mrs. M. Second—That of achievement, achieving something for himself and department. That he strive every day to do something which would reflect credit not only to himself but to his department and city. He cannot carry out these phases successfully unless he pursues the third, that of service. It is service that counts. I believe our policemen are honest. I believe that a great majority of them desire to give to their city the best service they are capable of rendering. No service is more important, no service requires greater experience, higher courage, or more exalted patriotism than the service performed by an honest and efficient policeman.

The number of lodgers at police headquarters during the year was

955. Since the department is not maintaining a lock-up these men are sent to the county jail for lodging.

The department issued licenses to the amount of $1,274 during the year. This sum together with $1, will expressed on many occasions

during the year.

The cooperation of all the city departments is also appreciated. All of them aided us greatly in the administration of police affairs.

Our success, in purely a police way was largely due to the cooper-

NEW WASHINGTON LETTER.

A hitherto unpublished letter of George Washington has been brought to light in Reading, Pa. In the autumn of 1794, at the time of the Whiskey Insurrection in Pennsylvania, President Washington passed through Reading on his way to the point where the troops were assembling. In Reading he accepted an invitation to attend a meeting of the Masonic order and after his departure the lodge addressed him a letter of thanks and assurances of high regard. It was Washington's response to this letter, written in his own well-known handwriting, that was recently discovered. The letter is not of historical value in the ordinary sense, there being in it no reference to current events or to matters of political importance, but it is highly interesting as still another revelation of Washington's religious feeling and personal modesty. Addressed to "Fellow citizens and brothers of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania," and signed "G. Washington," it reads:

I have received your address with all the feelings of brotherly affection, mingled with those sentiments for the society which it was calculated to excite.
 To have been, in any degree, an instrument in the hands of Providence to promote order and union and erect upon a solid foundation the true principles of government, is only to have shared with many others in a labor the result of which, let us hope, will prove through all ages a sanctuary for brothers and a lodge for the virtues.
 Permit me to reciprocate your prayers for my temporal happiness and to supplicate that we may all meet thereafter in that eternal temple whose Builder is the Great Architect of the Universe."

RECONSTRUCTING HISTORY.

At the recent celebration in New York of the anniversary of Edgar Allan Poe's birth it was contended by one of the speakers that Poe's fondness for alcoholic beverages has been exaggerated and that even if he did drink occasionally he "could not have produced his poems and tales if he had indulged to excess." Characterizing this as "nonsense," the Philadelphia Record goes on to say: "Poe was frequently under the influence of liquor, no doubt because it took very little to make him so. Even if this were not true in his case the argument of the speaker would still be wrong. Many very eminent poets were heavy drinkers, and nearly all of them (and for that matter, nearly all creative authors of every sort) were accustomed to the use of wine. Indeed the only truly great poet who was a total abstainer was Percy Bysshe Shelley."

And Shelley, it might have been added, though truly devoted to his ideals, managed to cause more scandal than any of the others, with the possible exception of Byron. It is useless to try to reconstruct historical characters according to modern notions of what they should have been, yet this is being done more and more and there is no telling where it is to end. It will be scarcely surprising if a decade or two hence some young enthusiast, after learning from lady teachers that tobacco is a poison as well as a degrading weed, should solemnly hold that not one of the fathers or defenders of this country was ever guilty of either smoking or "chewing" because if they had thus debased themselves their greatness would have been impossible.

One night recently a man kept an important business engagement in New York city, jumped into a Pullman for Chicago, put through a difficult matter in the space of three hours on the sea night in that town, caught another Pullman for New York and was successful in a third difficult bit of business in that city on the third night. And that man was not a headless wonder, as might be supposed but was Normal, the Finn, champion runner of the world, who tests his legs on express trains between starts at far separated points.

An Englishman recently arrived in this country says that one of the things that "struck" him most in the extraordinary number of young people between 18 and 25 wearing spectacles. The same observer who hair and advancing years," might be even more "struck" if he looked into some of our public schools, and perhaps be still further fortified in his opinion that "all the spectacle-wearing is the result of nervousness and misleading propaganda by interested parties."

"Ma" Ferguson ran for Governor of Texas to vindicate "Pa" Ferguson (who was impeached), but it is pretty safe to conclude that the popular enthusiasm for "Ma" at her inauguration did not include "Pa" to any large extent.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)
 A GRACIOUS ACT.

A distracted father, a returned soldier, rushed from the hospital to where a number of people were watching a ball game.

He addressed the crowd as follows:

"My little girl is lying dangerously ill at the hospital. She must have a pint of blood transfused into her veins at once. The doctors tell me I must not give any more at present. Can I get any of you chaps to help me out?"

Twenty young fellows went with him to the hospital.

Their blood was tested, a number accepted, and others told that their blood was not suitable.

Were these chaps rejected because of anything wrong with their blood?

No!

It just so happened that their blood did not mix properly with that of the sick child.

In former days it was thought that only by arm to arm transfusion could this object be attained, but now it is possible to remove the blood from the one giving it, and keep it in a vessel lined with paraffin until it is to be used on the patient.

The amount usually given is ten to twelve ounces, which does not as a rule weaken the giver noticeably.

As you know this blood is given in cases where blood has been lost by extensive bleeding, or where the patient has been poisoned by gas from defective tubing in the home, or the exhaust gas from an automobile.

Gas poisoning is serious because the gas actually gets into the blood and uses up the oxygen in the blood cells or corpuscles.

These little corpuscles therefore have not got that life-giving substance—oxygen—to give to the tissues of the body, and without it the body must die.

Therefore when a quantity of fresh blood mixed with life-giving oxygen is poured into their veins, this extra quantity may be sufficient to supply the system with the necessary amount of oxygen.

In some cases giving a quantity of saline or salt solution answers very well, in filling the vessels, and giving the heart enough resistance to make it act more strongly.

The teams are well matched and a good game is expected as Captain Hyatt, of the Clinton Avenue, is just as determined to win as is Captain Zelle, of the First Dutch.

The original horsemountain? Acaulus Hippocentaurus, in the hands of the whole genus and one of the most beautiful from the world, says a bulletin of the Arnold Arboretum. It was brought to America at least 100 years ago and there are many noble specimens in cities and towns of the eastern states. The Himalayan horsemountain and the species of central China are not hardy here, and the Arboretum has not succeeded in obtaining seeds of the north China species. Acaulus chinensis, which will probably flourish in this latitude.

In the course of old bookworms between the pages of a returned volume, one American claimed the blue ribbon by citing a story of raw bacon which one of his ancestors had salvaged from a copy of Mr. Horatio's poems.

But his claim was instantly given second place when the chief of a famous library in a great manufacturing city countered with a soft-shell crab which turned up between the leaves of a book on engineering.—The Outlook.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

THE GRIFFIN.

The first vessel built in the Western Hemisphere was the Griffin, the keel of which was laid on this date in 1679, by workmen in the employ of the great La Salle. The Griffin was a barque of sixty tons, and was built at the mouth of Cayuga Creek, not far below the site of Buffalo, N. Y., and near the feet of Squaw Island. She was armed with a battery of seven small cannon and some muskets, and floated a flag bearing the device of an eagle. In August of the same year La Salle embarked with his colony, sailing for the western end of Lake Erie. This was the beginning of the commerce of the Great Lakes. The Griffin had a successful voyage to Green Bay, but in the meantime La Salle's creditors, thinking him lost, were selling at Montreal, all his possessions. To prevent this he loaded the Griffin with a rich cargo of furs, and sent it back, with orders to return immediately. La Salle then explored the western country, but on returning to Fort Frontenac he learned that the Griffin had been shipwrecked.

SKATING.

Skating was invented by the Dutch and was popular in Holland for centuries before it spread to England or France. The first blade-skates used in England were introduced from Holland about 1660, but the first mention of them occurred in a diary bearing this date, January 25, 1661. A little later the immortal Peppas remarked on the practice of skating in St. James's Park. Prior to the use of skates by the Dutch, a sort of skate made of the bones of animals was used by the northern peoples, dating back to prehistoric times.

In the 12th century a Danish historian mentioned the use of these bone skates, and at about the same time the young men of London fastened the leg-bones of animals under their feet by means of thongs, pushing themselves over the ice with poles. Several of these primitive bone skates have been discovered in the marshy fields near London, and are preserved in the British Museum. Skating as we know it now, however, originated in Holland at an unknown period, and was taken up by the English in the seventeenth century.

ELEANORA GALIGAI.

Eleanora Galigai was the wife of Concini, Marechal D'Ancre. Of humble birth, the daughter of a joiner and a washerwoman, of Italy, she enjoyed for a time the absolute dominion of France. She finally died by a judicial sentence pronounced upon her for crimes, some of which were never proven, others of which she could not have committed. She was the foster-sister of Mary de Medici. Doubtless the favor she enjoyed with this princess was Concini's reason for marrying her. They went to France with Mary de Medici, whom Madame Concini governed so completely, that she was virtually queen, and later, Regent, of France. Her insolence so disgusted Louis XIII, the son of her protectress, that he had Concini assassinated and Eleanora brought to trial, where she was charged with and tried for the practice of sorcery, there being no other crime of which she could be accused. Asked by what magic she had so fascinated the queen, she replied, "By the power which a strong mind naturally has over the weak." She was condemned in May, and executed in July, 1617.

Elephant Noted for

Keen Sense of Smell

What the elephant lacks in vision is more than compensated for by the animal's keen sense of smell. His trunk is probably the best smelling apparatus in the world, and he depends first of all on his sense of smell.

When he is at all suspicious he moves his trunk round in every direction, so that the slightest taint in the air will reach him. In many other ways the elephant's trunk is the most extraordinary part of that most extraordinary animal, the Providence Journal says.

It is entirely flexible at every point and it can turn in any direction and has tremendous strength. There is no bone in it, but it is constructed of interwoven muscles and sinew so tough that you can scarcely cut it with a knife.

From it an elephant can shoot a stream of water that will put out a fire, and with it he can lift a tree trunk weighing a ton or pull a delicate blade of grass. He drinks with it, feeds himself with it, smells with it, works with it and fights with it.

Relations to Nature

In general one may say that the human hand is the oldest and most universal profession, and that, where a man does not yet discover in himself any traces for one work more than another, this may be preferred. But the doctrine of the future is merely this, that every man ought to stand in primary relations with the work of the world; out to do it himself, and not to suffer the accident of his having a piece in his pocket, or his having been bred to some dishonest and injurious craft, so never to be from these duties; and for this reason, that labor is God's education; that he only is a slave learner, he only can become a master, who learns the secrets of labor, and who by real coming efforts from Nature his acceptor.—Burton.

ROMANCE

YOU often hear people refer to the "dear old days of romance"—to the time when knight-errants roamed the earth to do honor to a lady's blue eyes.

These folks say we are living in an age of realism!

An age of "realism" where the human voice is hurled across the world without wires; where the temperature of Mars is taken more than thirty millions of miles away; where tons of steel and people ride easily and safely through the air or under the sea!

An age of realism! Why, this is the most romantic of all ages!

The advertising columns of this paper are full of romance—of the romance of men who have devoted their lives to bringing new comforts, conveniences and pleasures of mankind.

Advertisements tell these stories, not with the romantic exaggeration of a jongleur, but with the calm, simple words of sincerity. Here is a firm that spent millions to develop a product that makes your baby comfortable. Here is a company that has labored fifty years to cut a single hour of toil from your day's work. Here is a man who has searched the Seven Seas to produce a new flavor for your dinner.

Romance—this age is full of it. Not just empty romance, but the true romance of achievement, of progress, of the betterment of mankind.

Advertisements tell you what the romance of business is doing for you. Read them.

Are Still Busy Removing Snow

The street force, largely augmented in numbers, is still busy removing snow from the city streets. The fall of snow last week was the heaviest experienced so far this winter. Due to the quick work of Superintendent W. Scott Van Keuren in getting the city's four snow plows at work traffic was not tied up by the storm in the city. All of the streets have been opened by the plows. The work of trucking away the snow is still under way with the aid of auto trucks and horse-drawn sleighs.

PROGRESS BEING MADE BY BAZAAR WORKERS

On Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock General Chairman Leo V. Grogan called to order the workers in charge of the preparations for the coming bazaar to be held in St. Mary's School Hall on the 5th, 6th and 7th of February for the benefit of the Benedictine Hospital.

The meeting was a very enthusiastic one and each chairlady reported progress. There is a good natured rivalry between the different booths, which will with the assistance which is expected from the general public, make the bazaar one of the greatest social events of the season.

No admission fee is to be charged at the bazaar and there will be dancing every evening.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic cough and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creosolene, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolene is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and breaks the inflamed membrane and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung trouble. Creosolene contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and break the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote gets on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that leads to consumption.

Creosolene is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, all forms of throat and lung trouble, and is without fail for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creosolene Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

MINNESOTA PICKS BRAVE COMMANDER

If Eddie Lindell (he was named Edwin L. by his fond mother but his smile softened it to Eddie) shows the sort of record as commander of the Minnesota department of the American Legion as he flashed during his service in France, Minnesota is going to have an eventful year. And his term bids fair to go down as one of the best in the department, although the "Gopher Gang" has always been one of the "go-for-em" outfits in the Legion. He's starting out that way.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

MANY INTERESTED IN BIG CAMPAIGN

Every member of the cabinet, high officers of the army and navy and noted women have accepted membership on the honorary committee for the American Legion campaign for a $5,000,000 endowment for rehabilitation and child welfare work. Vice President-elect Charles G. Dawes has accepted the vice chairmanship of the committee, which is headed by President Calvin Coolidge. Mrs. Coolidge is women's chairman of the honorary committee.

Members of the committee, in addition to the President and vice president-elect and Mrs. Coolidge, are: Secretaries Hughes, Mellon, Hoover, Work, Gore, Davis, Weeks, Wilbur; Attorney General Stone, Postmaster General New, Admiral E. W. Eberle, Gen. John J. Pershing, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, Maj. Gen. J. L. Hines, Mrs. Frances Cleveland Preston, wife of former President Grover Cleveland; Miss Ernestine Schumann-Haack, the singer; Miss Ethel Barrymore, the actress; and Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, the writer.

The Legion campaign was formally endorsed by the American Federation of Labor at its annual convention at El Paso, Texas. National Commander James A. Drain addressed the convention, explaining the endowment and its purpose.

Adjutants of the Legion in every department pledged "utmost support" to the campaign at the conclusion of their annual conference at national headquarters. The national commander and other officials laid the plans for the campaign before the conference.

The first contribution to the fund was received from a World war veteran, who sent $100 in "appreciation of my safe return to my wife and five children." The veteran was Dr. C. S. White of Rosedale, Ind. He declared that the campaign "is a wonderful thing for you to do."

Income from the endowment is to be used in work among disabled World war veterans, in caring for orphans of veterans and in child welfare generally. Plans for the campaign have been expedited because of the pressing need for assistance for 5,000 orphans of veterans who now are in need of care. The campaign will be nationwide.

Anan Raymond Commands Biggest Post in World

It takes a big man to run the affairs of the biggest Legion post in the world and that's what Anan Raymond, attorney, commander of Omaha post for the year of 1925. More than two days' balloting resulted in the election of Mr. Raymond, who succeeds Leo B. Bosell, the man who is said to be largely responsible for the size and fame of Omaha post. Besides launching and putting over the idea of bringing the national convention of the Legion to Omaha in 1925, Mr. Bosell is leaving a very substantial sum in the treasury of the Omaha post.

Would Prevent Game of Fraudulent Solicitors

National headquarters of the American Legion urges all Legion posts to issue officially signed credentials in instances where solicitation is to be done in the interests of the Legion, raising welfare funds, money for clubhouses, etc. The posts should do this, it is pointed out, to protect themselves, the Legion and the friends of the Legion who contribute to their legitimate enterprises from fraudulent persons using the Legion for a cloak to shield their nefarious practices.

Just a Sociable Game

A stranger from the East, pocketing bulging with money, meandered into the back room of Red Peter's place in Scarlet Gulch, where the boys were indulging in a quiet little poker festival.

Wishing to impress the small town men with a regular guy's idea of what poker playing was, he produced a large roll of bills and demanded a stack.

"It's just a sociable little game, stranger," remarked Tuckey Jake, "but I reckon we kin let you in. How much you want?"

"About a thousand dollars' worth," replied the stranger, one arm.

Reaching for the one grand and without making a turn of the cards, the dealer ordered his assistant:

"Give him a white one!"—American Legion Weekly.

To Veterans of All Wars

A memorial building, dedicated to the memory of veterans of all wars, is planned for the city center in Minneapolis. The building would house the trophies of the Civil and Spanish-American wars as well as the exhibits of the World War. It would be a place for any organization of veterans to be included in the plan.

Men Empty Pockets

A man cannot enter two or three automobiles without detecting to himself that he is doing so. He is not in the habit of thinking, whether in the kingdom of the senses and the understanding, or in that of ideas and imagination, or in the realm of sensations and duty—Chicago.

most dangerous machine gun fire. The line he built and maintained permitted the adjustment of fire from the front line of the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Infantry.

On the night of September 11, 1918, he left his forward telephone shelter at great personal risk. One at a time, he carried four wounded men of the One Hundred and Seventeenth signal corps to safety during a heavy bombardment.

On October 25, 1918, he was awarded the Croix de Guerre with bronze star for his exploit in cutting for the barrage by visual signaling in the Souain sector on July 15.

On his return to Minneapolis, Eddie joined the Legion. He organized V. L. Gaultier post in August, 1919, and was post commander for three years. This post claims to have adopted the first boy scout troop adopted by a Legion outfit. He helped organize the Hennepin County Central Committee in 1920 and was vice commander in 1922.

He worked his way through high school and spent two years at the University of Minnesota. He was employed for a time by the Minneapolis Tribune and is now in the insurance business.

Chippewas Entertained by Carl Anderson Post

Members of Carl Anderson post, Cloquet, Minn., entertained the Chippewas recently. The Indians gathered from the state reservation and were addressed by Gerald V. Barron, post department commander, and Senator Dieren. Superintendent P. R. Wadsworth of the Indian reservation presented certificates to the Indians which were signed by the President of the United States, expressing the appreciation of the nation for "such splendid patriotism and help" during the World war. The Chippewas of Minnesota returned generously to every call of the government in helping increase food supplies, purchasing Liberty bonds and donating to war relief, as well as serving in the armed forces.

President of France Frees Former Soldier

The American Legion post, Paris, France, prevailed upon President Doumergue of France to pardon a former American soldier who had been unjustly imprisoned in a French jail for arson. According to Legion officials, John L. Agotte of Sheboygan, Mich., married a French woman, who was not happy in America and persuaded him to return to France, where he had a disagreement with his father-in-law. Being ordered to leave the house, Agotte fled to a neighbor's barn, which was set afire accidentally. Because of his indiscretion he had to be confined to prison and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

OLD LION

He was an old, old lion and he had lived in the zoo for many years. His mate had been in the zoo, too, though he had met her in the jungle. How well he remembered that time. What a beautiful young lioness she had been and how wonderful it was to walk by her side through the deep, dark forests and thick underbrush. Oh, how lucky he was to have had her say "Yes" when he had asked her the most important question in the world.

Then he had been lucky, too, that both of them had been brought to the zoo.

They had been very well and very contented here, though at times there were longings for that great, free, wild life. Of course there were dangers there and there were no dangers here.

Accidents might happen there which could never happen here.

One day a visitor came to the zoo. The visitor came and looked at all the lions and he stopped and looked at Old Lion for a long time.

There was a sign saying how very, very old, Old Lion was. And the visitor was amazed.

"But he looks like a powerful old brute still," the visitor said.

That pleased Old Lion. And a shadow of a smile came into his great, thoughtful eyes.

"But I'd hate to meet him anywhere. He looks cruel and terrible as though he cared for no one," the visitor added.

Old Lion did not look at the visitor. He would not do the visitor that honor. No, he looked over his head.

He looked far out beyond and he seemed to see straight through the cages at the other side of the lion house.

We Stopped and Looked at Old Lion.

house and he seemed to see even beyond—far, far beyond—through to another land.

The visitor had gone. The other lions were asleep. But Old Lion was wide awake.

His mate was asleep. But he did not feel like sleeping.

"He said I was cruel and terrible and that I cared for no one," Old Lion repeated.

"That shows how little he knows," he added. "Maybe I have been cruel to my enemies and maybe I have been terrible."

"Maybe I have my faults and maybe she thinks all lions are alike."

"That is the great mistake people make about animals anyway. We are not all alike."

"We have many similar ways—we build and market and we wander and we act along the same family lines (that is not supposed to be a joke, I hope no one will take it as such) as others do."

"But each creature is just a little different from the next one."

"Lions are almost all devoted mates. But above all I think I am the most devoted mate."

"I do not see, this because I wish to praise myself. I say it because I think it is due my beautiful lioness—because she is so beautiful and so lovely she deserves great devotion."

"I loved her when first I saw her. I have always loved her. And the man had no right to look at me and say that I looked as though I cared for no one."

"What does he know of the love that is in my lion heart?"

"What does he know of the affection and the devotion and the admiration I feel toward my dear lioness?"

"She is not so young as she once was, but she is still so wonderful. Her charm, her superb lioness charm, is greater today than ever it was."

"Her roaring voice is more lovely to my ears. Her wild, wild eyes more beautiful."

"Oh, he should not have said I looked as though I cared for no one when I care so deeply for my beautiful lioness mate."

"Did you speak to me?" the lioness said as she awoke.

"I simply said I cared for you," answered Old Lion.

The lioness was always devoted in saying a prayer on entering church. As she had been taught to say prayer for the occasion and her reputation was known to be limited, she was invited to tell her mother what she said.

"I always pray," said lioness frankly. "That there may be a lioness."

COOKIES AND SMALL CAKES

Cookies made at this season are always good as long as they last and make a dainty bit to serve with a cup of tea or cocoa when a friend drops in.

Spice Cookies.—Cream one-half cupful of butter and one-half cupful of lard with one cupful of sugar. Add one cupful of molasses to the sugar and shortening, one tablespoonful each of ginger and cinnamon, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of soda dissolved in one-half cupful of hot water. Mix and chill well after adding flour enough to roll. Leave in a cold place over night and bake in the morning.

Almond Cracklings.—Shred and blanch ten ounces of almonds, put four ounces through a meat chopper and shred six ounces; beat the whites of two eggs stiff, fold in ten ounces of sugar, add the almonds and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of vanilla. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a buttered tin, spread one-fourth of an inch thick and bake a light brown. Cut into squares while hot.

Anise Cookies.—Beat two eggs until very light, add slowly one cupful of sugar and beat the mixture for fifteen minutes. Add the grated rind of a lemon, and slowly two cupfuls of cake flour sifted with one-half teaspoonful of baking powder and one-eighth of a teaspoonful of salt sifted three times. Add two teaspoonfuls of anise seed and beat the mixture again for fifteen minutes. Roll on a floured board to one-fourth inch of thickness, press a wooden springerle mold very hard on the dough, cut out the little forms and let stand ten hours on greased floured tin, then bake for fifteen minutes.

White Told to Shed

Clothes in the Tropics

London.—White men and women must revert to Garden of Eden costumes if they are to be successful in colonizing tropical countries, according to Professor P. F. Fyson of Berhampore, Bengal. If the Europeans are to stand tropical temperatures, says the professor, he must get over his idea that the exposure of naked skin is indecent and he must follow the example of the Indians, who wear no clothing above the waist or about the legs and feet.

Sheep Leads 'Em Chase

After following a sheep 25 miles in an effort to capture it, officials of the board of agriculture of British India had to shoot the animal, which was supposed to have been subjected to the foot-and-mouth disease.

Red-Light Gloves

Luminous gloves are being worn by motor drivers in Paris. A red light showing on the back of the outstretched hand is switched on by bringing the thumb and forefinger together.

"Little Bird Told Me."
In early days superstitious people paid considerable attention to the birds and their different cries, which were believed to foretell events. Thus comes the old saying, "A little bird told me," says the London Daily Mail.

Traces of this belief are to be found in our own Old Testament, where verse 20 of chapter 10 of Ecclesiastes speaks of "for a bird of the air shall carry the voice, and that which hath wings shall tell the matter." It is generally agreed that it is from this belief in the universal knowledge of birds—which,
of course, are supposed to see everything from the sky—that we get this saying.

A GOWN OF BLENDING TENDENCIES.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Most of us have a flexible clothes sense; our minds change with each whim of fashion. For instance, the sleeveless dress appears the only smart dress when fashion so decrees it, but when long sleeves are added, even to low neck frocks, we are amazed to think we ever were anything but enthusiastic over long sleeves.

This season long sleeves are a very new and important item, but one is permitted one's preference.
The sleeveless dress is not being frowned down. The woman with a wealth of beautiful bracelets will be sure to be on the side of no sleeves.

The introduction of bordered fabrics is another of the high lights of the new season, a season we invariably rush into, largely because of the fascinating displays of Southern things—shop windows afford even when traffic is keebound.

One may at least profit by this advance information in silhouette and detail and have their late winter models as up-to-date as though they were made of such diaphanous things as southern clothes are made of. The printed dress is not necessarily for southern wear, nor need one wait for spring to have a short flaring skirt, the flare resulting from inverted pleats in some instances—a clever way of varying the tubular frock.

It is curious, too, that the recurrence of short frocks should strike us as something so different from those worn only a few seasons ago—the "different" look resulting only from added fullness.

In the not so long ago, skirts were short and uncomfortably tight; now, they are short and billowy as the sea, or would be if, in many cases, ways of holding this fullness in check had not been resorted to.

Ardonia Man
Hangs Himself

William Coy, one of the most widely known fruit men in Ulster county, was found hanging by a rope from a rafter in his barn at Ardonia Saturday. His health is believed to have led Mr. Coy to take his life.

Mr. Coy's body was found at 2 o'clock in the afternoon by his son. The younger Coy and his wife were away from the home in the early afternoon, and on returning found a note addressed to the husband. The husband hurried to the barn and there found his father. Mr. Coy had evidently climbed upon a berry crate, fastened the rope about his neck, and kicked the crate away.

Mr. Coy was a prominent member of the Clintondale Fruit Growers' Association. He was 70 years old.

CHICHESTER TEAMS WON SATURDAY'S GAMES.

Two games of basketball were staged in the Chichester Social Hall on Saturday evening and the local teams were victors in both events. In the preliminary game the "Chit" Midgets defeated the Shandaken Midgets, score 17 to 12. Lee scored 15 points. Krom of Shandaken made 8.

The town team was scheduled to play Tannersville but that quietest failed to keep the date, so the main contest was between the Chichester team and the Lanesville Five. The score:

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 26.—Strength and activity in the oil stocks and reactionary price trends in the industrial stocks featured the stock market today. Significant weakness in American Woolen Common and Preferred stocks, which broke to the lowest price since 1919, unsettled the industrial stock list shortly after the noon period and many of the active stocks in this section of the market lost a point or more. Oil stocks continued the upward movement which has been in progress since the turn of the year.

The American Woolen stocks were selected as the principal target of the bearish traders as soon as the market opened. Losing two points at its first sale at 52, the common stock broke to 49 in the third hour, while the preferred declined to 85 for a loss of 6 1/2 points. Not since 1919 have these prices been duplicated. A heavy decline in the available surplus of the company and the probable discontinuance of the preferred stock dividend were among the rumors passing the rounds in Wall Street today.

Skelly oil was an active leader in the independent stocks, advancing 1 1/2 points to a new high at 27 1/2 on heavy sales which included blocks of 2,000 to 5,000 shares. Sinclair Consolidated sold up to 20 1/2, a new high for the year, and fractional advances were scored by Coaden, the Pan-American, Pacific, Pure Oil and other prominent oils.

Except for a small number of the low priced stocks, the railroad shares were inconspicuous. Missouri, Kansas, Texas Common gained two points at 34 1/2, in continuation of its upward movement. St. Paul stocks were undisturbed on reports that the 1924 deficit will be about $1,750,000.

Industrial market leaders like American Can, United States Steel, etc. were eclipsed by the oil and stocks and had little opportunity to shine until the fourth hour when a little heavier demand for these stocks appeared. American Woolen recovered about two points and the tone of the market showed a distinct improvement, notwithstanding that call money advanced to four per cent.

AMERICAN WOOLEN STOCKS TUMBLING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 26.—American Woolen stocks tumbled more than five points in the stock market today as a result of heavy speculative selling based on rumors of the disclosure of heavy losses in the annual statement for 1922 to be published next month. Bearish traders concentrated their attacks on the common and preferred shares, the former dropping 5 1/2 points at 49 and the preferred stock losing 6 1/2 points at 85. This is the lowest price quoted for the common stock since 1919 when it sold at 45 1/2 and in that year a 20 per cent dividend was paid.

Warren Shelved
By Committee

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The nomination of Charles B. Warren of Detroit as attorney general was "shelved" today by the Senate Judiciary committee to await the outcome of a fight against confirmation of the promotion of Attorney General Harlan F. Stone to the supreme court of the United States.

The committee "indefinitely postponed" consideration of Warren's nomination after a subcommittee headed by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, reported it could not approve the appointment. The Borah committee investigated Warren's record for a week and its report was filed "without recommendations."

The Ladies' Aid Society of Temple Emanuel will meet Wednesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, at the school. A large attendance is requested.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Guild of the St. James M. E. Church will be held on Wednesday, January 28, at 2:30 p. m., in the church parlor.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Katherine Sheehan Howard died suddenly at her home, No. 121 North Front street. The funeral will be held from the chapel of Leo V. Grogan on Pearl street, at a time to be announced later.

Archibald Calhoun, a veteran of the Civil War, died at his home at Hawley's Corners, near Highland, on Thursday. He is survived by his wife and several children. The funeral was held Sunday from the Lloyd M. E. Church, with interment in the Lloyd Cemetery.

Mrs. S. C. Terwilliger died at the home of her son, Robert C. Terwilliger, at Stone Ridge Saturday, January 17, in the 90th year of her age. She was the widow of the late John S. Terwilliger, of the town of Marbletown. Four sons, four daughters, eleven grandchildren and fifteen great-grandchildren survive.

Grover C. Swart, son of Sarah C. Swart and the late Charles A. Swart, died in this city Sunday, January 25. He had been ill for a long time. Besides his mother he is survived by a brother, Arthur L. Swart, funeral private from the residence, 139 Lindenman avenue. Interment in the Hurley Cemetery.

Samuel Levy, a well known and highly respected resident of this city, died Saturday at his home, 29 Staples street. He was a son of the late George and Rose Geismar Levy, and is survived by three sisters, Carrie, Helen and Fannie and two brothers, Lehman and Theodore, all at home. Funeral from the late residence Tuesday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in Montrose Cemetery.

Catherine Ricks, wife of Charles Ricks of Woodstock, died at the family residence at Woodstock today. Besides her husband she is survived by one son, Fred, of Summitville, N. Y., two daughters, Mrs. George Neher and Miss Christina, both of Woodstock, and one sister, Mrs. James Michael of Whitby, Ontario, Canada. Funeral from the late residence Wednesday afternoon, at 1:45 o'clock and at the Spring Street Lutheran Church at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in the family plot in Montrose Cemetery.

Mrs. Katherine Genther, widow of Adam Genther, died early Sunday morning at her home, 142 Chambers street, following a brief illness. Mrs. Genther had been a resident of this city for the past fifty years and enjoyed the high esteem of a large circle of friends. She is survived by two sons, Christopher and John Genther, both of this city. Funeral from the late residence Wednesday afternoon, at 1:45 o'clock and at the Spring Street Lutheran Church at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in the family plot in Montrose Cemetery.

The funeral of Captain Thomas J. Fitzgerald was held this morning at 2:30 o'clock from 214 Hasbrouck avenue and 10 o'clock from St. Mary's Church, where a solemn Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Thomas A. Keane. The Rev. Joseph B. Scully was deacon and the Rev. Thomas Larkin, subdeacon. The funeral was one of the largest ever entering St. Mary's Church. The church edifice was taxed to its capacity with sorrowing relatives and friends, which included a delegation of the fellow employees of the Cornell Steamboat Company. The floral tributes were profuse and beautiful. During the Mass Mrs. James T. O'Reilly sang "Pie Jesu" and at its conclusion, "Thy Will Be Done." As the body was being borne from the church the St. Mary's choir rendered "Jesus, Come to Me." The bearers were John Risley, Joseph Bradley, William Tierney, James Cannon, Joseph Edge and William McGowan. The Rev. Father Scully accompanied the funeral cortege to St. Mary's Cemetery, where the committal services were conducted.

South African Board KEEPS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Pretoria, South Africa, Jan. 26.—Radio amateurs were enthusiastic today after their success in locating Johannesburg, more than 2,000 miles distant, on a two valve set. The success was the result of the program, which was broadcast from Johannesburg, was more distant than the program broadcast from Johannesburg, 300 miles away.

Father Winters
Goes to Pelham

The Rev. James M. Winters of St. Mary's Church, Ellenville, has been transferred to a new parish in the Pelham Parkway section of the Bronx, New York city. He will be succeeded at Ellenville by the Rev. Joseph L. Mastaglio, who for the past sixteen years has been assistant pastor of St. Malachi Church, at West 49th street, New York city. The Right Rev. Dean Joseph G. Cushman of St. Joseph's Church, this city, was notified of the transfer on Sunday.

BATTERY "A" HAS

15 NEW ENLISTMENTS.

Drill Tonight at Armory May Be Viewed by Public.

Since the beginning of the month Battery "A," 156th Field Artillery, has been conducting a recruiting campaign and so far has made considerable progress toward the goal that they set out to gain. This campaign will be conducted for the remainder of the month. During the month the battery has also endeavored to acquaint the public with the workings of the battery and the use of its various equipment, especially the French 75mm gun, which is the main defense of the battery.

Battery "A" has since it opened its recruiting campaign gained fifteen new enlistments and a few re-enlistments. This increase in membership has been obtained through the untiring efforts of all the officers and members of the battery. The cooperation of the majority of the business men of the city have also added greatly to the success of the battery. Many of the members of the battery have given up their time for the benefit of the campaign.

The battery at the start of the campaign had a total strength of four officers and seventy-three men; now the battery totals four officers and eighty-nine men. The battery is now in fair condition, but still greater must be the enlistments in order that the battery be able to be at the top of the membership list.

Any young man over the age of 18, who is in good physical condition, is eligible to join and share the benefits of the battery. The social benefits of the battery are many and the work is a physical asset to the man as well as educational and instructive. Those who sign up with Battery "A" now are given exceptional chances for advancement.

To again give the public a chance to view the work of an artillery battery, the armory will be open this evening and all those interested in the work are welcome. The French 75mm gun will be on display and all those who have any questions as to the working of the gun shall have an opportunity to have them answered at this drill.

Three Games at Epworth Hall

In the first game at Epworth Hall on Saturday evening the Business Girls defeated the High School Girls by a close score of 11-10.

Following this game the Clinton Avenue Juniors marked up another win against the Presbyterian Juniors, score 33-12. The first half was fairly close but in the second the Clinton Juniors, through their pass-work walked away from the Presbyterian Five. Clark with 2 fields did the best scoring for the losers while "Gog" Boyce with 15 and "Penrod" Chipp with 10 collected the most of their team's total.

In the main attraction the Clinton Avenue Seniors also overcome the Presbyterian Seniors by a 23-17 score. Although the Presbyterians were leading early in the game, at half time the Clintons had the upper hand by one point. Clark with 6 did the leading scoring for the losers while Snyder dropped in 5 fields for the Clinton Avenue Five. Hyatt and Chipp made six points each.

Although it was a difficult game to referee, Kelly showed that he was capable of handling the whistle.

Hard Battles Ahead for Nurmi

Defeat Saturday Given Heart to American Runners—Tough Schedule Telling on Flying Finn.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Jan. 26.—Paavo Nurmi's defeat in the Brooklyn College games was the talk of the athletic world today.

The phantom Finn misjudged the capabilities of his rival, Gunnar Nilsson. The mistake cost him considerable prestige. It will also make his task of beating his field in the Millrose three-quarters mile test a much more difficult one than it would have been had he kept his record clean.

His American rivals are going to take heart after seeing the colors of the Finnish star dragged in defeat.

True it is that the handicap which Gunnar Nilsson of the Finnish-American Athletic Club received, was a most generous one. Starting from the one yard mark in a 2,000 yard test is quite an advantage to be given over a rival.

However, before the race every one agreed that Nurmi would have little trouble in vanquishing his opponent. For this reason the defeat is something more than a passing fancy.

To the real deal in the wool critic it means that the Finn title holder is not unbeatable. It has been said of a race horse that a champion is one for whom no excuses are necessary. The same holds good in the case of Paavo Nurmi. From now on he is going to receive some hard battles from his rivals.

Some trainers are of the opinion that the schedule of races Nurmi has completed in since his arrival in this country has begun to tell on his condition. So far as consistent performances are concerned the Finn champion has set a precedent that it is not likely to be surpassed in some years.

His jumps about the country have given some of our training-ideas a slap in the face. They have broadened out the mind of more than one old timer. Henceforth we may look to see our athletes making long jumps without offering alibis for their failure to win.

Nurmi set a precedent that is going to have much to do with making inter-sectional competition more popular. In this respect it is going to exercise a great influence in bringing about a finer understanding between the athletes in various sections of the country.

Pioneer in Baseball Dead

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 26.—John B. Day, the man who, as president of the New York baseball club gave New York its first Giants, lies died today in poverty stricken surroundings where once fame and affluence were his.

Day lost his wealth in fighting for the existence of the old National League and the New York club in the fight against the Outlaw Brotherhood League in the early nineties.

In later years he became a cripple and managed to eke out an existence on a small annuity granted to him by the New York clubs and an occasional fee he was able to earn as "inspector of players and umpires" every time he attended a game in New York. It was often beyond his physical ability to earn the $5 thus set aside against his appearances at games.

Some years ago he was stricken with paralysis and never recovered his health.

Only Diamond Exceeds the Sapphire in Value

There is no such stone as a saph diamond. There is a distinct stone, a sapphire, a pure gem, being excellent in value by no precious stone except the diamond. The sapphire is regarded as a variety of corundum, highly transparent and brilliant. It is sometimes colorless, or nearly so. It more frequently, however, exhibits color, generally a bright red (i. e., the ruby) or a beautiful blue—the latter being that commonly called sapphire. Purplish or greenish color indicates a flaw, and usual defects are clouds, milk spots, flakes or stripes. A sapphire largely used among jewelers is called a "reconstructed sapphire," an artificially made of hard glass (crystal) in France and Germany, and is of no value except for the work entailed in cutting and mounting in jewelry. The true sapphire is found crystallized, usually in six-sided prisms, terminated by six-sided pyramids. It is sometimes found imbedded in gneiss, but most frequently occurs in alluvial soils. It occurs in Bohemia and Saxony, but the finest are found in Ceylon. Kashmir and Burma also produce the specimen, and sapphires are found in Australia and parts of the United States. The value depends on quality more than on size and does not decrease with the size of the gem.

Traveler's Tale

"Traveler" said a sailor to a train to a passenger who had questioned him. "I should think I've. I've been all round the world; over and under it, too. There ain't many ports I don't know the inside of."

"Why, you must know a lot about geography."

"Yes, we did put in there once, but only to coal ship. Tain't worth a place, what I remember of it."

League Games At "Y" Court

Saturday evening four good games were played at the Y. M. C. A. Two in the Intermediate Sunday School League and two in the Senior Sunday School League. The best game of the evening was played in the Senior League, when the St. James Quintet defeated the Wurtz Street Baptists 21-16. Dickson starred for the Baptists with 9 points and Molyneux for the St. James with 13 points. The spectators at these Saturday evening games are increasing but there is still room for more.
